

Facilitation Support

August 17, 2001

SFA Human Resources and business leaders are engaging in several working sessions with Union leadership to resolve transition concerns using interest based negotiation. The RMT Consulting Group, experts in federal union negotiations and interest based problem solving, have been retained to facilitate these working sessions.

The materials enclosed are agendas, summaries and draft agreements resulting from a series of working sessions attended by both SFA Human Resources staff and Union representatives. The summaries reflect discussion points, issues and action items uncovered during the working sessions.
